Overview Assam Delights | 4d/3n | Customizable

For those who believed the Indian one-horned rhinoceros was a creature of the Jurassic era, a visit to Kaziranga National Park will prove otherwise! Spanning 430 square kilometers of elephant-grass meadows, swampy lagoons, and dense forests, this UNESCO World Heritage Site is home to over 2,200 one-horned rhinoceroses, nearly two-thirds of the world's population. Located on the edge of the Eastern Himalayan biodiversity hotspots in Assam, Kaziranga's history dates back to 1908, when Mary Curzon, the wife of Lord Curzon, was moved to action after failing to spot a rhino during her visit. Her dedication led to the creation of the Kaziranga Reserve, which ultimately saved the species from extinction. In addition to the iconic rhinos, Kaziranga is a sanctuary for elephants, wild water buffalo, swamp deer, and Bengal tigers, which prompted the park to be designated a Tiger Reserve in 2006. It is also a haven for birdwatchers, attracting migratory species like the lesser white-fronted goose and the black-necked stork, making it an Important Bird Area. Kaziranga isn't just famous for its incredible wildlife, but also for its groundbreaking conservation efforts, which have played a pivotal role in increasing the population of endangered species. The park's stunning landscapes, where vast stretches of grasslands meet the mighty Brahmaputra River, create an enchanting atmosphere, making it a must-visit destination for nature lovers and wildlife enthusiasts alike.
